Dear Friend, Hello from Edinburgh!

Despite the cold and persistent rain, the snowdrops and crocuses are now up and out. The promise of spring is most welcoming here. Please pray for those who we meet on walks and at bus stops. Some recent conversations have proved times of blessing to us, as we confront seekers, previous contacts, or those in cults who need to know the truth. Please pray for God's power and wisdom as we give forth His Word (II Thessalonians 3:1).

The church services have been blessed with returning visitors. So we thank you for praying with us. Please continue to pray for those with various needs, for obedience to God's Word, and the salvation of souls.

In the Sunday School Joanne continues to teach the children through the OT. Recently we finished up a series on Abraham, Issac, and Jacob. Two new youngsters have also come, when their mother is not working. So sometimes, 3 toddlers (under 3) are in the same class with the elementary aged students. Needless to say, it is a lively class!

Our son and his wife (David and Faith), and our daughter (Louretta) are all planning to visit in mid-March. Please pray for their travel plans from the US and Italy and for this family time together. It's been years since we were all together at once, as distance, cost, and work schedules get more complicated when three countries and various travel requirements are involved. Need I mention time zones, connections, or weather (for flight connections)? So your prayers are appreciated at this time.

Some of you have asked about Mark's health. Thank you for your concern and continued prayers for him, as he obeys doctors orders—with meds, exercise, and healthy eating. Of course the fatigue and pain continue, but he is able to get everything done, although sometimes not as quickly as planned.

We especially wanted to thank you for your continued support. It's is being put to good use. Recently, a university student took several tracts from our tract rack (about doctrine), another man showed up at church and showed us the church tract that he had received and decided to come and check us out. He has been back several times. And a SS child asked, "Did we come from monkeys?" How exciting to be in a place of need, with God's help to make a difference.

So we thank you for enabling a Gospel light to shine here in Edinburgh. It is our privilege to serve as your ambassadors. God bless you, and Happy Valentine's Day!

Gratefully yours,
Mark and Joanne Landon
